Howell to Quit Post on Toll Road Group

Will Return to Law Practice After Bond Issue Completed

SPRINGFIELD — Evan Howell announced today he will resign from the Illinois Toll Road Commission as soon as the initial turnpike bond issue is completed, probably "in a matter of weeks."

Howell said it was his intention to resign as soon as the Illinois toll road program was on a "firm basis" when he accepted appointment as chairman of the commission in 1953.

Howell said he will return to private law practice.

Howell has been the subject of controversy almost since his appointment by Gov. William G. Stratton in 1953. He was criticized for forming an organization for membership by private firms interested in toll road business, for putting employer pressure against opponents of toll roads, for his personal expense accounts and for the method of undertaking the building of toll roads.

The commission chairman left his lifetime post as a $17,500 a year federal judge in the U. S. Court of Claims to take the toll roads job, which pays $12,000 a year.

At the time of his resignation he said he could not "adequately support my family in Washington on that salary."

Howell was appointed to the federal bench in 1947 by former President Truman after serving as a Republican congressman from the Springfield district.

Stevenson to Enter 1956 Race Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson is expected to announce his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination next Tuesday and friends say Sen. Estes Kefauver will throw his hat in the ring in about three weeks.

Stevenson's Chicago headquarters announced Wednesday night that the former Illinois governor will make his intentions known Tuesday instead of the following Tuesday as previously scheduled.

Stevenson was due here today en route to a speaking date in Charlottesville, Va. There was speculation he might confer with Kefauver, who was an unsuccessful aspirant for the 1952 nomination won by Stevenson.

The reports encouraged discussion of a possible Stevenson-Kefauver ticket.

Kefauver's friends said the two unannounced candidates might meet to chat, but they said such a talk could have no effect on Kefauver's candidacy for the top spot on the Democratic ticket.

Still Discussing Plans

The Tennessee's friends offered their private but informed appraisal of his plans scarcely more than a day after the Senator said it is "too early" to reveal them. Kefauver told a Providence, R. I., radio audience Tuesday night that he still is discussing his plans with party leaders around the nation.

But close associates said Kefauver has made his decision. They said the senator hopes to complete certain unfinished congressional business before taking on the national appearance of an avowed candidate.

Stevenson, drafted by the national committee in 1952, has indicated to associates that he is ready to fight for the nomination this time in presidential primaries. That should put him in a head-to-head contest with Kefauver in some of the 19 state primaries.

Sachs in Democrat Race for Governor

CHICAGO — City Treasurer Morris B. Sachs has tossed his hat into the ring for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Sachs announced late Wednesday that he had decided to run as a result of requests from people "in all walks of life."

"I'm going to run on the same program I ran on for city treasurer, with just one promise — to serve with honor," he said.

Sachs, a prominent Chicago clothier before he got into politics by running for city office, said he hadn't heard how the important Democratic organization here would take his candidacy.

Asked whether he'd run even if the party leaders endorsed someone else, Sachs said "I'll cross that bridge when I come to it."

Captain Baldvieso, Bolivian Consul To U. S., to Address Dinner Club Nov. 17

A partnership policy for the Americas, North, Central and South, is the hope and suggestion of Captain Jose Guzman Baldvieso, Bolivian Consul to the United States, who will address members of the Southern Illinois Dinner Club at its meeting Thursday evening, Nov. 17, at the Kurto Country Club.

The Bolivian, who was born in Oruro, frequently referred to as the tin capital of the world, and who besides being Consul of his government is in the United States to give his children "the best education in the world," says the South and Central Americas are not looking for handouts.

"It has been proven elsewhere that loyalty and friendship cannot be bought," he says. "What the Americas need is a partnership where each country contributes to the welfare of the others. Thus can we strengthen the whole western hemisphere and discourage aggression from the outside."

Captain Baldvieso, who says he prefers the name of "Captain Joe," to avoid having people attempt his tongue-twisting name, is an author of note in his own country. He has published a column in one of its leading newspapers and has written two books which have become very popular.

Issue Permits For Six Oil Tests in County

Six oil and gas drilling permits were issued for Saline county between Nov. 1 and 7 at Springfield. The permits:

To N. L. Grant, Metropolis, for the Hale No. 1, SE 1/4 NW 34-88-66 (Raleigh);

To Sam G. Walker, Evansville, for the Basham Heirs No. 1, SW 1/4 NW 34-88-66;

To Sam G. Walker for the Basham Heirs No. 2, NE 1/4 SW 34-88-66; To the Carter Oil Co., Tulsa, Okla., for the Ralph Tucker No. 1, SW 1/4 NW 34-88-66 (Eldorado);

To L. K. Billings, Fairfield, for the W. Morris No. 2, SW 1/4 NE 34-88-66;

To Sam G. Walker for the Verlie O. James No. 4, SW 1/4 NE 34-88-66.

The State Geological Survey reported that during October six extensions to existing pools were discovered in the state including two in Saline county and that new pools for the month included the Degonia sandstone in the Mitchellville pool and the Renault limestone in the Eldorado West pool.

The Saline county extensions were to the Eldorado Consolidated and the Mitchellville pools. The other extensions were to the Dale Consolidated pool and the Herald Consolidated pool in Hamilton county, to the Elly East pool in Edwards county and to the Cooks Mills East pool in Coles county.

Mentally Retarded Ass'n Speaker to Address Lions

Bruce J. Humphreyville

At a joint dinner meeting of the Eldorado, Harrisburg and Carrier Mills Lions clubs to be held Tuesday, Nov. 15, at 6:30 p. m. in the cafeteria of the Junior high school, Bruce J. Humphreyville, Hinsdale, Ill., will be the guest speaker under the auspices of the Saline County Association for Mentally Retarded Children.

Mr. Humphreyville, past president of the Illinois Council for Mentally Retarded Children, and who is the parent of a retarded child, will speak on "What is being done for Retarded Children?" He is also vice president of the national association and director of the fund drive for National Retarded Children's Week in Illinois.

All parents of retarded children are urged to attend and ministers, doctors and school officials are especially invited.

Public Urged to Attend Veterans Day Program Friday

The public today was urged by American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars officers to be present for the Veterans Day program to be held uptown tomorrow morning.

The program will start at 10:30 and will last about a half-hour. County Judge Trafton Dennis will give a short patriotic talk. The invocation will be by the Rev. Glen Daugherty, pastor of the First Christian church. A firing squad composed of members of the Legion and VFW will fire a salute and there will be Taps played by the bugler.

Jury Refuses to Indict Two in Till Kidnaping

Mississippi District Attorney Indicates Case is Closed

GREENWOOD, Miss. — The Emmett Till kidnaping case is closed, a prosecutor said today, but the furor over "Mississippi justice" stirred up by the Negro boy's fate raged on.

A grand jury of 20 white men late Wednesday revealed its refusal to indict Roy Bryant, 24, and J. W. Milam, 36, on a charge of kidnaping the 14-year-old Chicago boy they already had been acquitted of murdering.

Leflore county authorities could ask the next grand jury to indict Bryant and Milam, but Dist. Atty. Stanny Sanders said, "As far as I know, the case is closed."

The men admitted kidnaping the boy at gun point, because they thought he was "the one" who insulted Bryant's wife with an indecent proposal and a "wolf whistle." They said they freed Till unharmed after deciding he was not "the one."

Widespread protests over the acquittals of Bryant and Milam after a murder trial in an adjoining county were echoed in first reactions to news of the grand jury's "no bill."

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which had made the "wolf whistle" a cause celebre of its campaign against alleged injustice toward Negroes in Mississippi, said the "no bill" came as no surprise.

Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive secretary, said in New York the grand jury's refusal to indict confessed kidnapers was no surprise "to anyone acquainted with the administration of justice in Mississippi."

The Greenwood Morning Star defended the grand jurors as "men who know justice and are capable of making the right decision."

Rites at Eldorado For Stillborn Infant

A short funeral service was held at the Bean and Tanner funeral home in Eldorado today at 11 a. m. for the stillborn son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cowan of Eldorado. The baby, named Danny Ray, was born at 12:30 a. m. today in the Ferrell hospital.

Besides his parents he leaves two sisters, Connie Sue and Debra Kay, and paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cowan and maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Reeder, all of Eldorado.

Rev. A. B. Plunkett officiated and burial was in Wolf Creek cemetery.

Deitz Rites Friday At Shawneetown

Funeral services for William Deitz, 63, resident of Shawneetown, who died Tuesday afternoon in the Ferrell hospital in Eldorado, will be held Friday at 9 a. m. at St. Mary's Catholic church in Old Shawneetown. Rev. John O'Keefe will officiate and burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery at Ridgway.

Rosary will be said at the Wright funeral home in Shawneetown tonight at 7:30.

The UAW said favorable rulings already have been handed down in Michigan, Delaware, New York and Massachusetts. The union pointed out these rulings covered "more than 60 per cent of Ford and GM workers — leaving only seven per cent to go."

Packard employees will receive a six-cent hourly wage increase or a 2 1/2 per cent pay boost, whichever is greater, for each of the three years. Wage increases are retroactive to Aug. 28, the date the old contract expired.

Skilled workers will receive an additional eight-cent hourly increase and an adjusted "cost-of-living escalator clause" will provide all hourly rated workers with an added one-cent boost retroactive to Sept. 1.

The contract also included improved pension, insurance, vacation and holiday provisions. Salaried workers represented by the union received a full union shop and a three per cent annual improvement factor.

Wood Products Pilot Plant Will Be Dedicated Saturday

By ROBERT L. ULLRICH
United Press Staff Correspondent

CARBONDALE, Ill. — A wood products pilot plant that is the only one of its kind in the nation is ready to launch a program to help farmers and small manufacturers in southern Illinois.

The plant will be dedicated Saturday at Southern Illinois University's Southern Acres campus, eight miles east of here. It is a joint operation of SIU and the U. S. Forest Service.

Richard D. Lane, forester in charge of the U. S. research center here, said the purpose of the plant is to seek "more complete and efficient utilization of southern Illinois forest resources." It has been in the works for about two years.

The plant will determine what products can best be made from southern Illinois timber, find the best ways to make them, and train operators for woodworking machines that might make the products.

"Workmen" are Students

And it will try to find out whether the products will sell.

The plant has an investment of about $150,000 in a building, machinery and staff. The building of 10,000 square feet houses 10 wood-working machines, and several more are to be installed.

The apparatus can be used for work on such diverse products as a fancy molding, or a hog feeding trough.

The staff consists of seven men from SIU and the research center. The "workmen" will be students taking a two-year course in industrial wood technology in SIU's Vocational-Technical Institute.

All lumber used will come from southern Illinois timberlands, most of which are on farms. Almost all of it will be air-dried. The plant will do research on the best methods of air-drying and give information to local sawmill operators. Part of the lumber will go to a small-capacity dry kiln.

One plant experiment might involve all picnic tables. The object would be to find whether the public will buy the tables made of the least expensive grades of lumber.

Eldorado Guard Fired at Joliet

JOLIET, Ill. — Warden Joseph E. Ragen said today that two guards at the Illinois State Penitentiary had been fired on grounds that they had nutmeg in their possession.

The nutmeg is used by inmates to make a powerful drink. Ragen said one of the guards admitted he used the nutmeg for barter with an inmate to obtain prison-made shoes.

Charges of larceny and dealing with inmates were lodged against the guard.

The two guards were identified as Donald Rushing, 23, Galesburg, and Chester Cletcher, Eldorado.

Ike Disturbed By Middle East, Geneva Reports

DENVER — President Eisenhower was disturbed today by highly-secret reports from Geneva and the Middle East where his program for world peace appeared to be breaking down under Soviet pressure.

The Chief Executive was in close touch with major developments in a suddenly troubled world situation as he prepared to fly back to Washington Friday.

Mr. Eisenhower received a detailed report on the international situation Wednesday from Herbert Hoover, Jr., the acting secretary of state. In addition to Hoover's report there was a steady stream of intelligence reports to Fitzsimons Army Hospital where Mr. Eisenhower has been a coronary thrombosis patient since Sept. 24.

While international developments piled up on the ailing Chief Executive, his staff kept an anxious eye on weather reports which indicated a heavy snow for Friday morning, the scheduled time for the President's departure.

Snow Expected Tonight

Forecasters said it will begin snowing tonight and that by noon Friday, the snow should extend as far east as the Kansas border. There was no indication whether the President's departure will be delayed.

Mr. Eisenhower appeared more concerned about major developments in the world situation than the prospect of bad weather.

These developments include the blow-up of the Big Four foreign ministers conference at Geneva, where Russia has refused to agree to any plan for re-unifying Germany.

Rescue Four from Bailing Out of Plane

HONOLULU, T. H. — Two more members of a five-man crew which bailed out of a crippled C19 over the storm tossed Pacific were rescued today by the seaplane tender Floyds Bay to boost to four the number saved by the ship.

The two men were plucked from the wind-lashed waters at 10:18 a. m. CST. There were no other details of their rescue immediately available.

Search for the fifth crewman was continuing.

The skipper of the Floyds Bay radioed that all four men were in "good" condition when pulled from the cold waters.

Molotov Offers Proposals at Geneva Talks

West Favors Return of Disarmament Issue to the UN

GENEVA — Russia called today for reduction of armed forces and a ban on nuclear weapons, and agreed to consider President Eisenhower's "open skies" plan for aerial inspection and exchange of military blueprints.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov offered these proposals in a plan submitted to the Big Four conference as it plunged for the first time into a debate on disarmament.

He submitted the plan as a new proposal. But much of what it contained was a repetition of earlier Soviet disarmament plans put forward last May and again by Premier Nikolai Bulganin at the summit conferences here in July.

Agrees To Consider

The Molotov proposals did not accept in so many words President Eisenhower's plan, which was put before the heads of government conference last summer.

It merely agreed that the President's plan, as well as the disarmament proposals of Great Britain and France, should be "considered" as part of the Big Four efforts to end the armaments race.

The four ministers already agreed on the linked issues of German unity and European security, questions on which East and West have been unable to agree for 10 years.

The West went into today's 10th plenary session today determined to brace itself against another Soviet filibuster on disarmament and planning to return the whole issue to the United Nations as soon as possible.

Molotov's latest offer did nothing to offset the gloom which has grown in recent days. It indicated that the second point on the agenda also would end in deadlock.

In addition, conference sources disclosed that the committee of experts named by the Big Four to draw up plans for increased East-West contacts—the third item on the agenda—has abandoned its attempts in failure.

The three Western foreign ministers and their top aides met before-hand in a last-minute effort to patch together something like a united front on disarmament — a question on which they themselves never have attained unity.

The Western Agreement

Informed Western officials said they agreed to:

1. Press the Soviets for a reply to existing Western disarmament plans.

2. Put forward no new Western proposals at the present conference.

3. Urge that the whole disarmament issue be turned back to the U. N. subcommittee which has been working on it for months.

Hopes for any major agreement at all at this Big Four foreign ministers conference plummeted to zero. And in the background was Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' acid question: "I wonder whether agreements with the Soviet Union are worth much?"

Three Killed in Headon Collision

CHARLESTON, Ill. — Three persons were killed in a head-on automobile collision Wednesday night after a teen-age driver's car apparently went out of control on a sharp curve.

Those killed were Arthur Waggle, 51, Rardin, his wife, Florence, 50, and Paul E. Planck, 16, Charleston. George Waggle, 9, one of the dead couple's seven children, was lying down in the rear seat of the Waggle car. He was not injured and ran for help after the crash.

Coles County Coroner Horace V. Clark said Planck, driving north on a road known as the U. of I. Trail, lost control of his car on a curve three miles north of Charleston. His car left the highway, came back onto the road sharply and hit the oncoming Waggle car.

The Weather

Illinois: Partly cloudy tonight; some showers likely northwest late tonight. Friday cloudy with occasional showers; turning colder extreme northwest late Friday. Low tonight 35-42. High Friday 60-65 southeast.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Senate Studies Flood Control Vs. Private Utilities; Peppo Plant Would Further Pollute Potomac; Pennsylvania Politics Thwarted Delaware Dams.

WASHINGTON.—A Senate committee under Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon begins hearings today on what may be considered a local problem affecting the District of Columbia. Actually it's a much bigger problem affecting the entire nation—whether private utilities come ahead of the public good in developing rivers and waterways.

In three different parts of the USA in the last three months, it's being shown that the private utility lobbies prevented flood control, with the resulting cost of scores of lives and hundreds of millions of dollars.

In New England, Congress authorized $300,000,000 for an integrated system of flood control and electric power similar to the Tennessee Valley Authority. But because the flood-control dams were to be used for electric power, the private utility lobby killed the entire project. That's why New England has suffered so heavily from storms.

On the Potomac, the Army Engineers in 1946 recommended an integrated system of 13 reservoirs in the Potomac basin. But because the plan tied water conservation up with electric power development in order to pay for the dams, the big utility lobby, with aid from Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia, called the whole thing off. Byrd was opposed to the flooding of areas along the Shenandoah where his apple orchards are located.

So today, the Potomac Electric Power Co., having helped kill the Army Engineers' integrated reservoirs and power dams, proposes a steam plant on the Potomac which will require a rail line in order to haul coal, and which will further pollute the already polluted water supply for the District of Columbia.

Meanwhile, water has become a vital problem around Washington. Farmers are tapping the Potomac for irrigation; the volume of the river, except in flood season, has dwindled and what the area needs is water conservation, not a steam plant alongside the Potomac at a place where it would be inundated if the Army Engineers' plan is ever consummated.

This is what Senator Morse of Oregon is now investigating.

PENNSYLVANIA POWER POLITICS

Shocking congressional testimony has just been received regarding the possible saving of 106 lives in Pennsylvania plus millions of dollars of flood damage if the coal and public utility interests had not blocked flood control on the Delaware river basin.

Exactly 13 years ago, after the horrible floods of 1942, the Army Engineers recommended a flood-control plan for the Delaware river basin. Though it was impossible to start work during World War II, Congress, shortly after the war, gave the green light for a huge flood-control system, provided it was linked up with cheap water power in order to pay for the dams.

Here the private utilities and the Pennsylvania coal interests stepped in.

Actually they had stepped in a good many years ago when the combined flood-control-cheap-power-navigation program of the Tennessee Valley Authority had begun to revolutionize the industry of the south.

Some of these facts were revealed during an on-the-spot study of flood control made by a congressional subcommittee under Rep. Robert E. Jones, Alabama Democrat, whose state has benefited from TVA.

EUROPEAN SOCIALISM

To get the entire picture of what's happened in the flood-menaced Delaware basin, you have to go back to 1933 when the private power companies of that area had nightmares over a possible Tennessee Valley Authority for north-east Pennsylvania and moved to block it.

Working through state legislatures, they organized the "Interstate Commission on the Delaware" in 1936 as blum notice to the Federal government to keep out of the Delaware area. The states of Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey, they warned, would solve their water difficulties without any help from Uncle Sam.

The commission did tackle water pollution but ignored flood control completely. Even pollution prevention made little progress.

At the recent congressional hearings, Mayor Joseph Clark of Philadelphia, which gets most of its water from the polluted Delaware, was asked by Congressman Jones:

"I've heard that down in Philadelphia you bottle your municipal water supply for treatment of athletes' foot. Is that correct?"

"There is a rumor to that effect," replied Mayor Clark, "but I would like to assure you that it's entirely unfounded. We used to call it the chlorine cocktail. The taste is almost, but not quite, as good as a martini."

Chairman of the Interstate Commission on the Delaware was Francis A. Pitkin of Pennsylvania, who considered the Tennessee Valley Authority socialistic.

"Progress under this procedure," he said, "referring to progress by the states without federal aid, 'may be somewhat cumbersome, as compared with results achieved in other interstate river basin areas, such as the Tennessee Valley. But the INCODEL (Interstate Commission on Delaware) system has one great merit. It avoids the danger of a 'return to the European system of centrally controlled provincial governors attributed to TVA.'"

Pitkin, however, has now drastically changed his mind. The recent floods on the Delaware did it for him.

"If we are to make progress in the solution of such highly complex problems involving complicated intergovernmental relationships," said Pitkin, following Hurricane Diane, "we must look to a federal government for leadership and financial assistance."

No longer did he brand federal help European socialism. By the time he found this out, however, 106 lives had been lost in Pennsylvania alone and $100,000,000 in property damaged.

Meanwhile, the Tennessee Valley Authority has licked the floods, opened navigation as far as Knoxville, and developed 82 per cent of the area's hydroelectric potential. Significantly, while public power in the Tennessee Valley has increased, the use of private power sold by the utilities has increased tremendously.

Birthday Dinner Honors
Mrs. Verna Dameron
And Mrs. Ellen Whipple

A double birthday celebration was held on Sunday in honor of Mrs. Verna Dameron and Mrs. Ellen Whipple at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Vandyke of Marion.

At the noon hour a bountiful dinner was enjoyed with special birthday cakes, one being presented to Mrs. Whipple and one to Mrs. Clara Hampton.

Those who helped them celebrate the occasion were Raymond Evetts, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Nicholson, Thomas Evetts, Charlie Dameron, Brack Evetts, Frankie Dale Hampton, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Vandyke.

Mrs. Dameron and Mrs. Whipple received several nice gifts.

Mrs. Whipple is the Evetts' only living aunt and was 80 years "young" on Nov. 4. The evening was spent in visiting and the making of pictures.

Other visitors in the afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCabe.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Teal and son, Gene, shopped in Marion Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Edmondson were visitors in Stonefort Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Nicholson and daughter, Mrs. Betty Richardson and children, Connie Ruth and Jimmie Dwayne, visited Mrs. Eva Poulsen of West Frankfort on Thursday.

First Armistice Day

John W. Allen

Southern Illinois University

The legitimate word reminiscence and a coined one "reminiscence" sound somewhat alike and, furthermore, often are suggestive of each other. The author of this series of articles, long conscious of this connotation, vowed to avoid reminiscence. This one time he willfully ignores that resolve, and here is why.

Perhaps it is the nearness of Armistice Day that causes some of us to pause and scan two large bronze tablets in the foyer of the auditorium at Southern Illinois university. These tablets carry the names of those who had been students at Southern before serving in the armed forces during World War I. To many there are only columns of names. With some of us, however, the names there arouse many memories of those listed.

A good half of the people now living in our nation had not been born when that first Armistice Day came on November 11, 1918. Older persons will recall the manner in which the people in their communities observed the day when the war ended. Our country had not seen a more spontaneous and general celebration. Bells were rung, guns were fired, whistles blew, women wept, men became almost hysterical, churches held services, papers issued extras, and parades were formed. Millions thus gave vent to their pent up feelings. While those "back home" were doing all this, what were men at the front doing?

I would like to reminisce a bit and tell of the activities of the group of which I was a member on that somewhat distant day, or rather, on the evening of that day. I was then a member of the Sixth Regiment of U. S. Marines. In the several months preceding that night, our brigade had been severely mauled. For about two weeks preceding Armistice it had been on the front. On November 11, 1918, it was deployed over the hillsides near Beaumont, France, and was preparing to cross the Meuse River. In fact, some units had already crossed on a small pontoon bridge and had established a bridgehead. Only a few had crossed, however. Before it was time for the others to follow, the Armistice became effective. Such was our position when the day came to its close.

Our platoon was in an apple orchard near the wreckage of some farm buildings. It was here that we were ordered to bivouac for the night. Using an apple tree for one anchor post, Albert Ullum from Akron, Ohio; Tom Greeley from Fayetteville, Pennsylvania, and I combined our equipment and set up a pup tent using excelsior found among the wreckage of a nearby building as bedding. It was a comfortable camp we had.

No Noisy Group

Having pitched our tent, we decided to build a fire—the first one we had built at night for several weeks. This fire proved quite an attractive innovation. It was liberally stoked and the circle about it enlarged. Planks from the wreckage of a nearby barn were brought and laid upon the ground for seats. Forty or more men, a somewhat motley group, came to sit about our fire.

Was it a noisy or boisterous gathering? It was not. It was a very quiet and sober one. One fraught with mixed emotions. The play of light on the faces of those peering into the campfire remains a vivid picture. We relaxed and found that we were very tired. We sat about the fire and talked in quiet, almost hushed tones. One sentence was heard over and over. Slightly varied in expression, it always said, "It's all over now, and we can go home." In quiet tones one would hear such remarks as, "How I wish Harper could be here tonight." With only changes of names this was repeated with other names like Olson, Stephens, Kirk, Wilson, Carponi, and Kelley, the nickname by which the Russian boy with the unpronounceable name was known.

We that sat about the fire on the hillsides that overlooked the Meuse River on that night were possessed of two basic thoughts. There was a calm happiness that came because we felt that the war was ended. We now felt sure that we were going home. The disagreeable task had been completed, we thought, and we were going back to pick up the patterns of our life where we had laid them down several months before. Those thoughts were the happy ones. Mingled with those thoughts, however, were the memories of our comrades who had not lived to reach that evening. Many of the absent ones had died gloriously for an ideal of peace and security for the world.

I do not believe that it would have been good for anyone to have stood before our group and to have said, "Your comrades have died in vain. Out of this war will come the seeds of another one to be fought by your sons over this same now restful and peaceful countryside—a war that will make this one seem insignificant—a war fought with almost unbelievable brutalities and with implements more diabolical than any now known—a war revealing depths of depravity of which you now can scarcely conceive—a war knowing no law beyond the whims and caprice of a mad man."

We would have scoffed at such a statement. The entire world would have scoffed. No one would have believed it. Nevertheless, it would have much that is true.

Millions of persons over the world will pause for a moment at 11 o'clock on this Armistice Day while the thoughts of the older ones will go back to the first such day.

The hottest features for '56 are in the new Chevrolet

Chevrolet never had it so good for you before... and no other car in its field even comes close. See if Chevrolet doesn't feature everything you want for '56.

All New! The Bel Air Sport Sedan with 4 doors and no sideposts

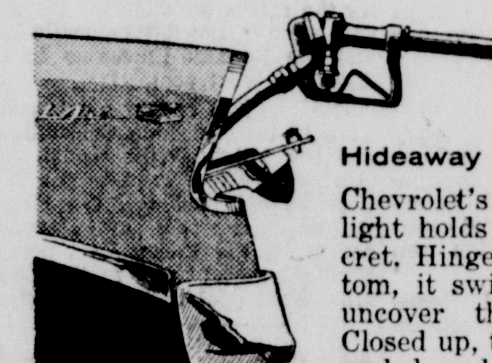

Bold, new Motoramic Styling

Just look it over—the lower, longer hood... the wider grille that spans the full front end... the big bold parking lights. From the side, you see the sweeping new speedline chrome styling and high-set taillights. Colorful new contemporary interiors add the final touch! Body by Fisher, of course.

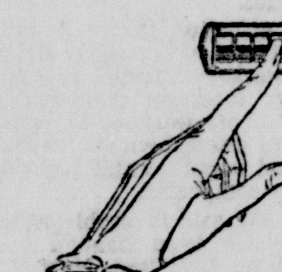

V8 Horsepower Zooms to 205

That's what the new "Super Turbo-Fire V8" pours out (an extra-cost option). You can see why we say the hot one's even hotter!

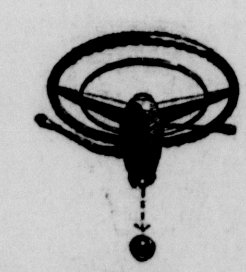

Hideaway Gas Cap

Chevrolet's left-side taillight holds a stylish secret. Hinged at the bottom, it swings down to uncover the gas cap. Closed up, the cap's concealed—and there's nothing in sight but the taillight!

Everything in Automatic Power Features

Power Steering, Power Brakes, power-positioned front seat, power window controls. All are available as extra-cost options.

Steering made easy

Ball bearings reduce friction and steering effort in Chevrolet's Ball-Race steering.

Anti-Dive braking

Anti-Dive braking, an exclusive Chevrolet development, means more level stopping—even when you hit the brakes hard!

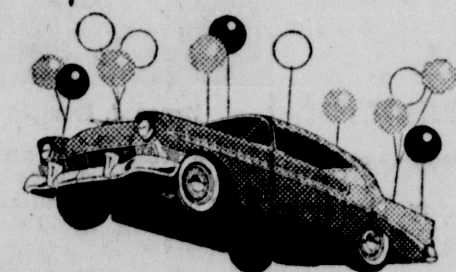

12-volt Electrical System

Packs twice the punch of ordinary 6-volt systems... spins the engine up to one-third faster. You get surer starting in all weather. And you have a greater electrical reserve supply.

THE HOT ONE'S EVEN HOTTER

It's the Pikes Peak Record Breaker!

The '56 Chevrolet proved its surer, safer driving control by breaking the Pikes Peak record!

Floats over the bumps

Roads seem newly paved with Chevrolet's Glide-Ride front suspension and long outrigger rear springs soaking up the jolts. And Chevy's cat-footed on curves! Chevrolet performance puts your safety first!

50 Attend Meeting of Horace Mann PTA; Study Major Project

About 150 members were in attendance Monday night at the November meeting of the Horace Mann PTA. Miss Mattie Martin, first grade teacher, had the largest percentage of parents present and received the traveling attendance trophy.

During the business meeting, conducted by the president, Mrs. Paul Tanner, various committee reports were given. The treasurer reported a profit of nearly $600 from the annual carnival held last month, and the president thanked publicly all of those who helped to make it a success, especially the members of the hospitality committee. The membership committee chairman, Mrs. John Cape, announced here were 361 paid members to date. Mrs. Ed Brantley reminded patrons of the Red Cross Bloodmobile visit which will be during the week following Christmas and urged everyone eligible to donate blood.

A special project committee was appointed to compile suggestions for this year's major project and report them at the January meeting. John Cape was named chairman. Other members on the committee are Carl Woolcott, John Utter, Mrs. Scerial Thompson, Miss Alice Jarrell, Mrs. Raymond Carroll, Mrs. Eugene Morris and Cyrus Steinsultz.

Following the business meeting cider and cheese crackers were served by the hospitality committee and parents visited in the various home rooms.

Actor Rock Hudson Weds Agent's Pretty Secretary

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—Actor Rock Hudson, 29, and Miss Phyllis Gates, 26, his agent's pretty brunette secretary honeymooned in secret today.

The actor and his bride drove to an undisclosed locale for their honeymoon shortly after they were married here Wednesday night by the Rev. N. B. Thorpe of the Trinity Lutheran church.

Hudson frequently was quoted as saying he wouldn't think of marriage until he was 30. His 30th birthday is next week. The actor's picture recently appeared on the cover of Life magazine, listing him as Hollywood's most handsome bachelor.

Hudson's legal name of Roy Fitzgerald was listed on the marriage license. Miss Gates is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Gates of Montevideo, Minn. It was the first marriage for both.

Reveal 19 GIs, Airmen Killed in Exercise Sagebrush
FT. POLK, La. 10—Nineteen soldiers and airmen have been killed in accidents since the start of Exercise Sagebrush, the largest peacetime maneuver since World War II, officials disclosed today.

The public information office said 12 of the deaths were caused by motor vehicle accidents.

Officials emphasized that 7 of the 12 were soldiers killed in traffic accidents while on leave from the camp in various sections of the state.

Of the others, two were killed when a helicopter hit a power line and crashed near the camp; two were drowned and one was killed when struck by lightning.

The figures were released a few hours after an Army spokesman denied reports that troops participating in the giant maneuver were not being cared for adequately because of mixups in supplies.

Sailor Kills Wife, Two Children, Then Commits Suicide

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A second divorce suit for the same woman was filed today for provoking a sailor to shoot and kill his wife and two young children and then commit suicide, police reported.

Officers said Machinist Mate 1/c George H. Smith Wednesday night shot his wife, Anne Ruth, 27, his daughter, Connie, 8, and his son, George Jr., 6, with a .22 caliber automatic rifle, then turned the gun on himself.

Neighbors said the couple came here from Greenville, Ga., 18 months ago.

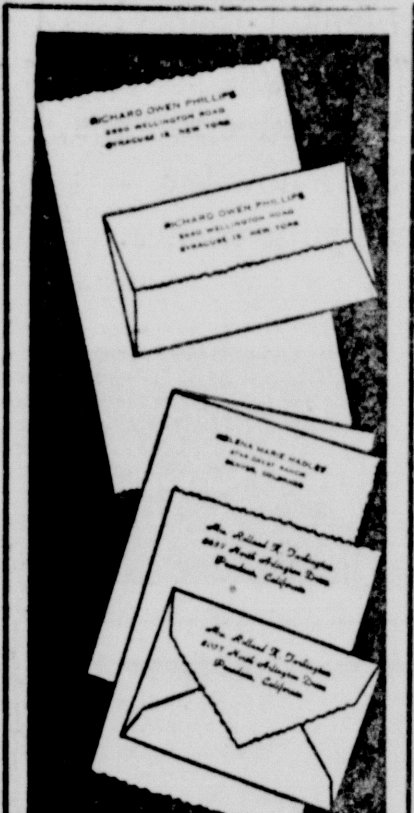

Before the shooting Wednesday, Mrs. Smith appeared in court to file her second divorce action against the sailor. The Smiths were divorced several years ago. She married another man, but divorced him and remarried Smith.

Cricket's Chirp

There is a definite relationship between a cricket's chirp and the prevailing temperature. The rate of chirp depends upon the temperature and the rapidity of the chirps is so affected by heat and cold that a formula has been devised for getting the temperature by this means.

Peron Predicts Short Life for New Argentine Gov't; No Plans to Regain Power

COLON, Panama (AP) — Former Argentine dictator Juan D. Peron settled down to work today on a book he is writing, firmly convinced that the government that toppled him from power would be short-lived.

Peron gave the new government headed by provisional President Eduardo Lonardi 18 months in office at the most.

"Any government that needs the army and navy to keep power can not remain long," Peron said.

He indicated he had no plans to seek again the power wrested from him in revolution "now that I have definitely retired."

He said in an interview at his exile retreat here Wednesday that he "has hopes" one day of receiving guarantees that would enable him to return to his homeland as a private citizen.

Peron predicted economic troubles ahead for large American firms doing business in Argentina.

Under his regime, the former dictator said, he made it easy for big U. S. firms to operate in Argentina.

Now, he said, the "unbalanced present situation and the new exchange rate of 18 pesos to the dollar will make it very difficult for these concerns to make any profit on their investments."

Peron, interviewed at the home of Colon Mayor Jose Dominador Bazan, defended his own decade of rule and said he gave Argentina economic, social and political balance.

He said reports that he took a fortune out of Argentina were "absolutely false."

Peron said he had plenty of chances to send large amounts of cash out of Argentina and "sometimes now I regret that I didn't do so."

"If I had I wouldn't have to go to work now."

Peron said he was writing a book called "Might Is the Right of Beasts" and hoped to have it finished in about 20 days in his quiet exile at a hotel here.

18,000 Names on Petition, Loser Gets 15,000 Votes

HAMMOND, Ind. (AP) — Republican Vernon Anderson says he would have been re-elected Mayor in Tuesday's municipal election if all the persons who urged him to run had voted for him.

A petition signed by 18,000 persons urged Anderson to run again last spring. But he polled only 15,937 votes Tuesday to his opponent's 16,359.

Police Round Up Teen-age Bandits

CHICAGO (AP)—A gang of teen-aged bandits, led by an Air Force escapee and including his 15-year-old sweetheart, was rounded up in their apartment hideout late Wednesday.

One of them was identified as the youth who shot and critically wounded an 86-year-old man during a $50 robbery Monday.

A policewoman posing as a date-hungry teenager brought about the arrests.

The policewoman, Anna Flanagan, learned that the gang had rented an apartment. She telephoned it, posing as a teenager seeking a date, and three of the gang's male members gathered to meet her.

Policemen raided the flat and found Air Force escapee Richard Pradun, 18, his sweetheart, Marilyn Savinski, Raymond Vonoskey, 14, and Francis Connolly, 16.

They later arrested Vonoskey's older brother, Anton, 16. Police said he was identified as the triggerman in the Monday shooting.

Pradun, described by police as the ringleader, had escaped from the Chanute Air Force Base disciplinary barracks at Rantoul, Ill., where he was awaiting a court martial on AWOL charges.

Rep. Powell Guest Of Airline in Inaugural Flight

United Airlines invited a group of Illinois' civic leaders to be guests on their Pacific Northwest Mainliner, Monday, Oct. 31, on an inaugural non-stop flight to Seattle, Wash., from Chicago.

The flight left O'Hare International airport, which was just opened to the public on Saturday, Oct. 29.

On this trip some of the industrial and scenic features of the Pacific Northwest which make that rapidly expanding area of interest to Chicago, were shown to the group.

After arriving at Seattle the group was taken by skydome bus for a trip by way of Puget Sound to Simpson Logging company, and included a ride on a logging train and the felling of large trees. They were then flown to Portland, Oregon, where they were guests of Bonneville Power Administration for a tour of Bonneville dam.

In both Seattle and Portland the men from Illinois were entertained by civic and political leaders and the press of those states.

The group consisted of top business men of Chicago, legislators, aldermen of Chicago, Commissioner of Public Works of Chicago, members of the Chicago press, and CBS and NBC Radio-TV.

Cairo City Council Fires Police Chief

CAIRO, Ill. (U.P.)—The City Council fired its police chief Wednesday over the opposition of Police Commissioner John Scapino.

The council voted 4-1 to discharge Elmer Millikan and appointed Enloe Jones as acting chief for a 30-day probationary period. Mayor Paul Bauer introduced a motion calling for Millikan's relief from his post for "the best interest of Cairo and the betterment of the Cairo police force." Scapino voted against the motion.

Before the action was taken, the other council members sent a letter to Scapino asking for Millikan's discharge for failure to co-operate with the council.

Millikan recently was suspended for 30 days after Bauer charged the police chief failed to carry out a council order to remove a house trailer from the city. A city ordinance prohibits occupation of house trailers within Cairo city limits.

Polar Bear Devours 6-Year-Old Boy

MENDOZA, Argentina (U.P.)—A huge white polar bear devoured a six-year-old boy when he fell into the moat separating the bears' enclosure from the public in a zoo here Wednesday.

Juan Jeronimo Rosetto, visiting the zoo with his grandparents, lost his footing and fell into the moat, where he was attacked immediately. By the time police arrived it was too late.

The bear was shot to death.

Feud Between Lohman, State Police Growing

CHICAGO (U.P.)—Cook County state police arrested the brother of a state policeman Wednesday night and said they found $90,000 to $100,000 worth of gambling equipment in his car.

The arrest was the latest chapter in the growing feud between Cook County Sheriff Joseph Lohman and State Police Supt. Phil M. Brown.

Lohman's men seized Carmen Bastone, 24, and Charles Rosen, 50. Bastone is the brother of state trooper Angelo Bastone, who has taken part in Cook County gambling raids ordered by Brown.

Sheriff's police said the two men were stopped for speeding in suburban River Forest. The men refused permission to examine the trunk of the car, police said, and a search warrant was obtained.

Find Jar Games

Police said they found a quantity of punchboards and jar games in the trunk, plus 71 bags of lottery tickets with face values ranging from 10 cents to $1.

Lt. Walter Fleming said the tickets, games and punchboards were worth from $90,000 to $100,000, and "if they ever sold them, they could have retired."

Bastone was charged with possession of gambling devices, speeding, and disorderly conduct. Rosen, who has a House of Correction record, was booked on charges of possession of gambling devices and disorderly conduct.

State Police Capt. Wilbur Kennedy, when informed of the arrests, defended Angelo Bastone as "a good state policeman."

"Is Angelo supposed to be Carmen's keeper?" he asked.

Predicts Power By Nuclear Plant Within 5 Years

CHICAGO (U.P.)—A utility executive predicted today that a northern Illinois nuclear power plant will be delivering enough electricity to supply a city of 300,000 persons within five years.

Willis Gale, chairman of Commonwealth Edison Co., said that work on the 45-million-dollar project in Grundy County is "going ahead full speed" and the plant should be completed four years after construction starts.

"This means that, beginning five years from now or sooner, our reactor will be delivering 180,000 kilowatts into our interconnected power system—enough electricity to supply a community of about 300,000 people," Gale said.

Commonwealth Edison is one of a group of utilities which are working together on the Grundy County plant, to be located just below the junction of the Kankakee and Des Plaines rivers.

Gale said the plant won't produce electricity as cheaply as do coal-fired plants, though it is hoped that eventually nuclear power plants will be built that are competitive with coal.

However, he said that nuclear power "will serve as another fuel" and "will not replace coal," but supplement it.

Former Workers Ask Return of La Prensa To Rightful Owners

BUENOS AIRES (U.P.)—President Eduardo Lonardi today considered a demand by 200 former employees of the confiscated newspaper La Prensa that it be forced to cease publication under the Peron-sponsored General Confederation of Labor (CGT).

The employees said in a message to Lonardi Wednesday night that they were willing to wait "without impatience" for the courts to return the great newspaper to its rightful owners.

But they said that in view of the government's announced aim of full freedom of the press, "we do not think it is fair" for the CGT to continue publishing La Prensa.

Democratic Poll Lists Farm Income As Biggest Issue

WASHINGTON — Democratic leaders have polled themselves and come up with the conclusion that skidding farm income will be the biggest issue of the 1956 presidential election campaign.

"Tax favoritism for the rich" — as the Democrats put it — was voted the next most important issue. The issue of public power "giveaways" was rated a close third.

Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler said Democrats of every rank—from former President Truman to county chairmen—were tapped for the poll.

The findings and Butler's comments are published in the current issue of the Democratic Digest, official publication of the Democratic Party.

The party officials were asked to check the top 10 of 20 listed issues that have aroused controversy during the Eisenhower administration. More than 1,600 officials have already responded, the article said, with falling farm prices receiving 1,279 votes as the No. 1 campaign issue.

Eisenhower Supports Middle East Peace Plan

WASHINGTON — The United States today increased pressure on Israel and the Arab states to cease fighting and cooperate on both short-range and long-range Middle East peace plans.

President Eisenhower kicked off the new U. S. peace push in a special statement designed to emphasize American interest in "friendship for all of the peoples of the area"—both Jew and Arab.

For the short-range, the President firmly supported United Nations plans to gain a cease fire between Israel and Egypt.

For the more distant future, the President again threw his support behind Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' plan to arrange boundary guarantees which would be supported by the United States and other U. N. members.

No Formal Reply

Israel has given a conditional acceptance of the American plan. But the Arab states have not given a formal reply although they have complained that it was one-sided in favor of the Israelis.

Mr. Eisenhower voiced his new hopes for a Middle East settlement in a statement read to reporters at Denver by Acting Secretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr.

The President said the United States would not contribute to an arms race but is "willing to consider requests for arms needed for legitimate self-defense."

This further cleared the way for delivery of some defensive weapons to Israel if the United States decides such action is necessary to offset Communist bloc arms to Egypt.

Murder in Haiti

A white motor launch had just come into sight around the farthest point of the great headland of the Mole St. Nicolas. Even at that distance OFFICIAL was written all over it. That sparkling white paint and gleaming varnish, the awning amidships and the bright little flag fluttering from a staff over the stern could only mean that the presence of the Vittoria, even in this lonely place, had come to the attention of the Haitian government.

"Oh-ho," I quoted. "Noises in the night."

Lynch beamed with self-congratulation. Lily Wyndam reached out, grasped Lynch's sleeve with one hand and mine with the other and hung on tight.

"I don't know," she said grimly, "what you two shifty characters are up to but I intend to be included in it or I'll be an eyewitness that you personally committed every crime on the New-gate Calendar. Is that clear?"

"Quite! You would give the undertaking an air of deceptive innocence."

The trim launch went into a wide turn to swing in alongside the landing stage. One of the Vittoria's sailors ran down the gangway to lend a hand. The other neatly threw a light rope ending in a Turkish knot into the outstretched hands of a dusky sailor in the launch's bow.

The officer who came up the steps was a middle-aged mulatto, slightly on the stoutish side. He was wearing an immaculate khaki uniform. His alert brown eyes were taking in the spit-and-polish of the yacht with amused interest. He looked good-tempered and intelligent.

Captain Carey introduced himself and welcomed him aboard in execrable French. The officer identified himself as Captain Heraux of the Haitian Gendarmerie.

"Captain Heraux? Enchanted to make your acquaintance," Lynch said, also in French. "My name is Bertram Lynch." He smiled.

"I might be described, I suppose, as the ship's security officer. And this is Professor Deane of the Yale Graduate School, a guest of Mr. Viggo Sand, the owner. Forgive me. I am sure you speak English."

The Haitian smiled. "Certainly American."

It was not until Sand had established him in one of the largest of the suite's neo-Wagnerian chairs and induced him to accept a glass of brandy that he got down to business.

"You understand," Captain Heraux said pleasantly but plainly, "I am a police officer. That is to say, the clearance or examination of ships coming to Haiti is no part of my duty. Your action in dropping anchor in Haitian territorial waters without first obtaining clearance at a designated port of call is most irregular. No one has been ashore?"

"Of course!" said Viggo Sand with a large gesture.

After one searching glance Heraux accepted it as a negative. "Since I understand this is a private party and Captain Carey tells me you have a ship's doctor who can give you a clean bill of health, I'll offer no objection. In an outlying area like this I have wide discretion."

Captain Heraux's clever mouth twitched with amusement. "I can't bring myself to believe that Viggo Sand is engaged in smuggling Cuban cigars. Or even this admirable brandy. I am here for a different purpose."

"So?" inquired Sand.

"Late last night word was brought me that there had been a sound of shots. Then came the news of an unknown vessel. It may interest you that both messages were carried across a considerable intervening space of hills by means of drums. Can you explain?"

Lynch examined his knuckles with an air of embarrassment.

"I can, Captain. While firing at some dolphins on the trip down, I found my gun was balky. The pin was striking off center. Last night I adjusted it. As I recall it, I first fired one shot. The adjustment was not yet exact. I did some further tinkering, then fired five more. Into the sea, of course."

Heraux listened to this explanation with what seemed to me considerable reserve. Without replying, he finished his drink, and got up.

"Have we your permission to go ashore, Captain," Lynch asked.

Heraux relented. "I see no objection. There is a ruin on the headland some of you might find interesting. A relic of the folies of another time. Limit yourselves, if you please, to the daylight hours."

At the head of the companionway, Lynch pulled a long white envelope from an inside pocket.

"I wonder, Captain, would you be good enough to do me a small service? These are some letters. Will you drop them in the post for me?"

"With pleasure," Captain Heraux put the letter in his pocket, patted it and descended to his launch.

On the way to our cabin Lynch enlightened me in a swift whisper.

"A cable in code to London. A covering note urging discretion and advising they be forwarded through the British Legation. I trust we have one! Heraux struck me as a clever man!"

Ohio State, Wisconsin Tie On Offense; Cassady Tops in Rushing

CHICAGO (U)—Ohio State, only team still unbeaten in Big Ten play, moved into a tie with Wisconsin as the league's top offensive team today with the Buckeyes' Howard Cassady taking over first place in rushing with 396 yards in four games.

Cassady, also the leader in scoring with 42 points, replaced Illinois' Harry Jefferson, who held second with 356 yards, after the latter played only half the game against Michigan.

Indiana's Gene Cichowski became the leading passer with 403 yards gained on 31 completions in 51 attempts. Purdue's Len Dawson held first place in total offense with 612 yards, but slipped to third in passing. Dawson has gained the most yards throwing, 634, but he had thrown 106 times and completed 59.

Iowa's Jerry Reichow was second in total offense with 526 yards, 162 on the ground and 364 passing, while Wisconsin's Jim Haluska was second in passing with 455 yards gained.

Purdue remained as the top defensive team, even though beaten by Michigan State, allowing its opponents only 111 yards rushing per game and only 54 plays a game.

Other individual leaders were Kelvin Kleber, Minnesota, in punting with a 44.7 yard average. Bob Knoeie of Purdue in pass receiving with 17 catches. Pat Levenhagen of Wisconsin in interceptions with four for 112 yards returned. Cassady in kickoff returns with a 29.1 yard average, and Earl Smith of Iowa in punt returns with a 23 yard average.

Start Against Illini

MADISON, Wis. (U)—New reports from the Wisconsin football camp indicate fullback Charlie Thomas may not be able to start against Illinois due to slow recovery from an injury received last week.

Glenn Bestor probably will get the starting assignment if Thomas' injury does not respond to treatment. Thomas leads individual Badgers' rushers with 465 yards in 89 attempts for a 5.1 average.

Johnny Saxton Wins Decision Over Tiger Jones

OAKLAND, Calif. (U)—Are the wraps off Johnny Saxton at last or does the former world welterweight champion fight better when outweighed by 10 pounds?

Sharp-eyed Johnny, who has drawn many a Bronx cheer in previous ring efforts, put on a masterful display of combination punching and aggressiveness Wednesday night here when he outpointed favored Ralph (Tiger) Jones in a nationally televised 10-round bout at the Oakland Auditorium.

Everything seemed stacked against Saxton at fight time. He not only was outweighed 158-122 but was a 7-5 underdog to Jones, who nearly wrecked Ray Robinson's comeback. The word also was out that Saxton might not get another crack at the 147-pound crown if he lost, although he was in line to meet the winner of next month's Tony Demarco-Carmen Basilio title bout.

But the odds crumbled along with Jones' defenses after round one started. Saxton scored almost at will with one-fists to the face mixed up with eye-catching "right-left-rights" to the same place.

Jones' best round was the eighth when he tore into Saxton after taking a solid right uppercut to the jaw and smashed over a hard right to the same place followed by a left.

Referee Fred Apostoli voted the fight to Saxton 56-12 to 53-12. Judge Jack Downey 57-53 Judge Eddie James 56-54 and the United Press 58-52.

Step Up Efforts For Outdoor Education Camp

CARBONDALE, Ill. (U)—The Educational Council of 100 has decided to step up its efforts to provide an outdoor education camp for southern Illinois children.

The council is a group of educators and laymen organized to work for better education facilities in the southern 31 counties of the state. It voted Tuesday night in Carbondale to hire on a temporary basis an executive director to speed development of the camp.

The camp will be established on 375 acres of land leased from the federal government at Little Grassy Lake. The council hopes to open the camp next spring.

Pro Backs Deny Graham Charge Of Dirty Play

By United Press
Five T-quarterbacks disputed Otto Graham's charge of "dirty play" in the National Football League today and dismissed injuries "as an occupational hazard."

Graham, Cleveland Browns' signal caller who was injured in last Sunday's game with the New York Giants, claims play in the professional circuit is getting dirtier all the time and has called for a tighter rein by league officials.

"I wouldn't say pro football is getting dirty," Bobby Thomason of the Philadelphia Eagles said. "After all, there is a thin line between aggressive football and dirty football and getting banged up is just part of the game—an occupational hazard."

Y. A. Little of the San Francisco Forty-Niners, who also played against Graham and the Browns in the old All-America Conference, says he thinks play is rougher today but not dirty.

"As far as I'm concerned there isn't any dirty play in this league. It is plenty rough and a lot rougher than in the AAC because the players now are bigger and faster, but I don't recall anybody actually going out to get a guy."

George Blanda and Ed Brown of the Chicago Bears agreed play is rough but both failed to see any signs of dirty play.

"Sometimes you're lucky—sometimes you get hurt, as I did against the Browns last November, but I think it's all in the game," Blanda said. However, Tobin Rote of the Green Bay Packers and Jim Finks of the Pittsburgh Steelers generally agreed with Graham's contention. Otto has called for fines and suspensions for dirty players.

Eagles to Close Grid Play Friday Against Fairfield

The Eldorado Eagles will close out their 1955 football season Friday night entertaining the Fairfield Mules. Kickoff time is scheduled for 7:30.

This will be the final high school game for many of the Eldorado players as the squad is heavy with seniors. The starting lineup of Chandler and Stroke, ends; McClary and Garrett, tackles; Putnam and Laffoon, guards; Herron, center; Clark, Potts, Acie, Gwaltney and Lovellette, backs, is an all senior unit. A majority of first line reserves are also members of the senior class.

Eldorado to date has a record of four victories, three defeats and a tie. Tomorrow night's game is important to keep the Eagles above the 500 mark. On the season's record it shouldn't be too difficult as Fairfield has been on the losing end of the score practically all season. However, the Mules have usually managed to score. A partial record shows—Bridgeport 27, Fairfield 6; Olney 26, Fairfield 6; Salem 59, Fairfield 7; Flora 20, Fairfield 7, and Lawrenceville 48, Fairfield 13.

Last year the two teams engaged in a high-scoring duel, with Eldorado winning 34-21 in a game played on the Fairfield gridiron.

School Driver Autos May Be Registered for $2 Annual License Fee

SPRINGFIELD (U)—Automobiles used for school driver training programs may be registered for an annual $2 fee and municipal "M" plates will be issued for them, Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter reminded school officials today.

Applications for registration of the training vehicles may be made on the regular license application form, but must be accompanied by a statement certifying their use, he said.

Two Area Basketball Games Tonight

Two area basketball teams will be in action this evening with Carrier Mills entertaining Mound City and Equality travelling to Crab Orchard.

This will be the second game of the season for Carrier Mills. Last Friday CM dropped a 76-70 decision to Rosiclare.

For Equality it will be the third game of this young season with Equality at 500 to date, winning from Cave-in-Rock 46-44 and dropping a 52-49 double overtime decision to Enfield.

Wins Prize in Guessing Contest

Mrs. J. H. (Helen) Wells, 115 South Main street, is the winner of a Dormeyer Deep Fat Fryer, awarded by Milnot company.

She guessed within one of the number of cans of Milnot in a display at the Du Quoin state fair. Her guess was 2890 and the correct number was 2889.

George Kent, Carbondale, southern Illinois representative of Milnot, was in Harrisburg Wednesday to make the presentation to Mrs. Wells, wife of the Saline County Health unit director.

He was also here to place advertising for Milnot which will contain a magnificent pumpkin pie recipe, and will appear in next Thursday's Daily Register.

First successful oil pipe line, four miles long, was laid in 1865.

Williams, Beal Co-Captains

Ron Williams (No. 50) and Tony Beal (No. 45) have been elected co-captains of the 1955 Bull Dog football team. Acting co-captains had been named to serve for each contest by Coach Lawrence Caluffetti and last night the varsity players held an election to name the captains for the season. So far tomorrow's game at Benton, the season finale, there will be actual co-captains instead of acting leaders. Williams has been outstanding at center this year and has been great when called upon to back the line or play defensive end. Beal undoubtedly is the best prep fullback in southern Illinois. Both boys are seniors. (Daily Register Staff Photos)

17 Bull Dog Seniors to Play Final Game at Benton Friday

Seventeen IHHS seniors turn in their suits late tomorrow after the important South Seven conference football finale for the locals at Benton. Game time at Tabor Field is 2 p. m.

These are in addition to two other members of the Senior class—Joe Morris and Fred McKenzie—Bull Dog regulars who already have given up the game because of injuries. Loss of Morris, star pass-catching end, and McKenzie, fleet tailback, have hurt the Bull Dogs plenty.

Of the seniors who will play their last game against the Rangers in the Veterans Day classic on foreign soil, nine are regulars who have been stalwarts in helping Harrisburg run up a mark of six wins, a tie and a loss during the season.

These nine are Ronnie Williams, center who also played linebacker and defensive end; Richard Hess and Jay Waite, as good a pair of guards as there is in the conference; Ken Price, hard-fighting tackle, and Everett Evans, tackle who came into his own this senior year in a big way; Jim Williams, steady end who did a most excellent job of punting when he had to take over the chores at mid-season; Wayman Hefner, hard-blocking and hard-tackling quarterback; Jack Wright, a charging halfback and fine player on the secondary defense who has had knee trouble the last half of the season; and Tony Beal, a letterman since his freshman year who this season is one of the greatest fullbacks ever produced at Harrisburg.

Underclassmen on the first string are Bill Henshaw, junior end; Donald Biggs, sophomore halfback; and Jim Cummins, junior safetyman. Also, Lou Williams, junior guard, saw enough action the last half of the year on defense to qualify as a first-string defensive player.

Other seniors are Mike Hays, who was used a lot at quarterback; Lyndell Stacey, who saw lots of action at guard; Ronnie Reynolds and Danny James, tackles; Harold Guard, center; Marvin Harlow, end; and Phillip Morse and Jack Foster, halfbacks.

The Benton game is important for the locals as a defeat can put them down past their present second-place rating in the South Seven. But Benton is rough and will be a hard team for the locals to defeat. The locals have suffered greatly at halfback and in team depth since the middle of the season.

Comparative scores do not reveal much edge for either team. Taking the common foes, Harrisburg beat Marion 32-6 and Benton beat the Wildcats, 37-6; Harrisburg beat Central 21-7 and the Ophirans beat Benton, 12-0, back when the good Benton fullback, Ed Fredette, had just suffered an appendectomy; Harrisburg lost to Herrin, 13-0, and Benton beat the Tigers, 20-12; Harrisburg beat Mt. Vernon, 7-0, and the Rams beat Benton, 7-0; Harrisburg beat Eldorado, 13-7, and Eldorado and Benton tied, 14-14.

In other games Harrisburg beat Murphysboro, 13-6, beat West Frankfort, 7-6, and tied West Frankfort, 7-7. Benton beat Carmi, 21-14, and tied Cairo, 14-14.

Other South Seven games find league-leading Herrin at Marion at 7:30 tonight and West Frankfort at Centralia tomorrow.

There will be a night game Friday at Eldorado, where the Eagles will entertain Fairfield.

Ford Named Pro Golfer of Year

CHICAGO (U)—PGA champion Doug Ford today was named winner of the annual award as "professional Golfer of the Year" by the Professional Golfers' Assn.

Ford, from Yonkers, N. Y., received 230 votes for the trophy compared to 190 for runner-up Jack Fleck, the National Open champion. Cary Middlecoff, runner-up for the PGA title, was third with 135 and Julius Boros fourth with 106.

Ford won two other tournaments during the year, the All American and the Carling's-Sponsors classic. He played 121 competitive rounds during the year, more than any other player in history.

He will receive the award at the annual convention next month in Atlantic City. Earlier winners of the trophy were Ben Hogan, Sam Snead, Boros and Ed Furgol.
